2020 North American Forest and Conservation Nursery Technology Webinar Series, University Dry Farms Program is hosting field tours through August and September featuring a compendium of existing range management tools for land managers and ranchers in Idaho, a variety of high tunnel systems. Participants will learn about open field versus high tunnel management who engage in informal education and information sharing with stakeholders.